WE WILL NEVER LEAVE THE LAND. BY REV. GEO. G. SMITH, JR. Comrade! you stood beside me In the hottest of the fight And you braved the storm of battle With all a strong man's might ! Now, comrade, stand up nearer, Grasp me firmly by the hand-

And swear by Heaven with me

You will never leave the land !

"Tis the land our grand old fathers Won from forest and from foe, Made theirs by noble daring, And with many a bloody blow! Our sisters here lie buried, And here our mothers lie! Our bones must rest beside them

When God wills that we shall die.

We cannot yield to menials, And to strangers hard and cold-We cannot yield the grave-yard, And our father's mansions old! And no threat of chains and halter, And no threat of prison cell, Shall drive us weeping exiles From the land we love so well !

We have not feared the battle, Nor the rain and chilling wind ! We shall not shrink from suffering, As shrinks the craven hind! And doing well and suffering well Shall pass away the night, And all its sorrows be forgot, In the glory of the light!

Then trust in God, my brother! Our fathers' God and ours, Who has blessed us with such sunshine-Such fruits and glowing flowers. But bide with her till we die! And in her sacred bosom Shall our wearied bodies lie.

HAVE YOU ENEMIES .- Go straight on and don't mind them. If they get in your way, walk around them regardless of their spite. A man without enemies is seldom good for anything. He is so easily worked that everyone has a hand in it. A sterling actor is one who thinks for himself and speaks what he thinks. He is always sure to have enemies. good deal in these latter days about the party of "great moral ideas." So far as we are able to discover, the "great moral idea" of those who specially sport that pretension is to hold on to power at any cost, and the most immortal of all ideas, a disloyal, traitorous and rebellious idea,in fact, is to try and get away from them. It was s happy conceit to describe the gorging of a party at the public crib, the greedy and voracious clinging to the public udders, never letting go the same except to snap at all who are suspected of entertaining like virtuous appetites as "great moral ideas." Unless this is what is meant by the phrase, we know not what it is. It is true that the leading characters thus distinguished, have illustrated their disinterested philanthropy by the great moral idea of abolishing slavery in other people's States, giving suffrage to other people's colored population, and repenting generally of other people's sins, but these are only means to an end, which end is the great moral idea of official flesh-pot and plum-pudding sinecures. It is edifying to behold the air of conscious sanctity with which the party of moral ideas regales itself with physical comforts, looking daggers at the same time at all carnally-minded sinners whose mouths are immortally watering at the sight of so much marrow and fatness, when they have done nothing to deserve it, never having meddled with other people's business, nor proved that "great moral fideas" are entirely consistent with the most immoral political practices. Plain people might be inclined to look upon it as the greatest of moral ideas to restore the mutual confidence and peace of the "great moral ideas," who, in that event would find their vocation gone, look upon this as so near akin to a vice that it is little better than rank treason.

A HOLY LIFE.—The rising of the sun is known by its shining beams; the fire is known by its burning; the life of the body is known by its moving; even so certainly is the presence of God's Spirit known by the shining light of holy conversation; even so the purging fire of grace is known by the burning zeal against sin, and a fervent even so certainly the life and liveliness of faith is known by the good motives of the heart, by the bestirring of all whatsoever God wills us to be doing as soon as we know he would have us do it. He that hath this evidence hath a bulwark against despair, and may dare the devil to his face; he that hath this man shall live forever.

FEALTY TO THE FLAG.

Sergeant Bates has finished his march. Since January last he has traversed the Sunny South, alone and on foot. commencing at Vicksburg, Miss., going almost due east to South Carolina, where he struck north to Washington. During all this long march he has carried a large American flag unfurled, that all might see, and although he has gone unarmed and without money in hispocket, be was not at any time molested nor did he sffuer for any of the necessaries in the shape of food or re freshment.

This march by Sergeant Bates has accomplished no possible good. Every power, was permitted to pass by unimreasoning man of the slightest judg. proved. ment or good sense, has known that a greater fealty to the flag than could ry, from Caswell's Magazine, is actually throughout all the South there existed possibly exist in the breasts of those who have pronounced it "a flaunting lie" and "hate's polluted rag."

This march was undertaken by Ser the Radicals that there exists no hostility to the flag in the South. In speaking of snakes, I am remind ed of an anecdote I once heard of the wife of an Indian railway official geant Bates, as he says, to prove to who was trimming with a large knife some plants which formed a border to a report the officers elected to the Comflower bed. She wascutting the tops off, and while so engaged, she was scared by seeing the coils of one of the most dead leaves. With a loud shrick she dropped the knife and the plants, and a man employed in the garden ran to her assistance. On hearing the cause of her alarm, he sought to kill the snake with his hoe; the creature was plainly to be seen writhing about but although and the old Union is displayed by the brave Southern people, the iron rule of turn on its assailant. ### ITS CAUSES, CHARACTER, CONDUCT & RESULTS By Hon. Alexander H. Stephens.

A Book for all Sections and all Parties. Tills great work presents the only complete and impartial analysis of the Causes of the War yet published, and gives those interior lights and shadows of the great conflict only known to those high officers who watched the flood-tide of revolution from its Fountain springs, and which were so accessible to Ar. The marriage took place, and for the time Li Kassa was pacific to the royal rule. He however, turned his arms in another direction. With 16,000 men Egypt was invaded, and Li Kassa decended from the heights of Jicheisa to the plains of Galabar. At Ganardros,however,his army was totally routed by the Turkish relays of the Egyptian Seudan, and Li Kassa himself was badly, permanently, crippled by a bullet in the knee. Impoverished in spirit and broken in fortune, he was not able even to fee an Abyssinian doctor to extract the ball from his leg, and without money the leech refused to work. As a result of this, he was crowned Emperor, under the name of Theodorus, at Asum,by the Bishop of Salarna. For a while he was quiet, but smarting under remembrance, he again invaded the territory of the Egyptians Seudan, ineffectually having solicited the governments of France and England to join in his crusade, which comprised in design the re-establishment of the ancient Ethiopian Empire. The expedition was successful as against the Seudan. But the army which by numbers had conquered was practically starved out by the Fabian policy of his antagonist, and desertions by the wholesale at last left Theodorus a barunder the chin with ribbon or a strip ren victory and the hardship of the Another negro row originated on of lace, that painful disease, neuralgia force not larger than 6,000 men and the control of a few futile fortresses The foreign entanglements which have eventuated in the recent war and the supremacy of British rule in Abyssinia began prior to Theodorus' accession to the throne, as far back as 1848. A Mr. Plowden,British Consulate at Massowah, had concluded a treaty favorable to the residence and business of foreigners in the empire. Theodorus set this wise concession of Ras Ali, his enemy and father-in-law, quietly aside and played the plunderer and freeboot er with Europeans in general and Britishers in particular. Mr. Plowden, himself, was soon afterwards killed by a predatory band in the interior.—
To keep up a friendly appearance, Theodorus slaughtered 1,500 of his subjects as reprisal. Mr. Plowden was succeeded by Captain Cameron. He was received with outward kindness, but every official obsteels was thrown but every official obstacle was thrown in his way, and he himself was captured by a Tigre chief. The steps taken, slowly but surely, by this force, the tardy willingness with which the constituents of the home government acquiesced in the extra imposition of taxes necessary to the expenses of the cam-paign, all the incidents preliminary to the one decisive battle, have become familiar to our readers. That the cam-paign is virtually ended in one battle dissipates many of the apocryphal stories concerning the resources, if not the bravery of the Abyssinian forces by this method than by any we have tried, and with less labor, and the discovery, alive and well, of the English prisoners who have been the gravamen of the dispate, will send satisfaction as generally through all Chistendom as it will particularly

The Farmer's Column.

FARMING .- We hear, every day, the remark that farming does not pay .-Why does it not pay ? All that the farmer raises brings a high price, and the price of labor is cheap.

Some will answer that free negroes will not work. Very well, we understand that. And we understand why a man, who hires a number of hands and is too lazy to attend to them.does not make money. But, we not unfrequently meet a gentleman whose hands do work, and even he complains that farming is a poor business. We confess, we cannot understand that. To bacco, corn. wheat, oats, vegetables, fruits, beef, bacon, chickens, ducks, eggs-everything that a farmer raises or ought to raise, is high, land cheap, labor cheap, and in cases we are speaking of admitted to be efficient, and yet there is no profit in the cultivation of the soil. That is a strange state of affairs. It would seem to us that there would be more money in farming now than ever before. Will some of our readers give us an explanation?

In the meantime, we venture to make a few remarks which may be taken for what they are worth.

Let a farmer realize his condition fully. Let him reflect that inasmuch as he does not own the negroes he works, he cannot reap any profit from their increase, as in the days of slavery. He must not have, therefore, more a bout house than he can profitably employ. Let him bear in mind, too, that he is not worth half as much capital as when he owned slaves on his plantation. He will then work himself. either bodily or mentally, according to circumstances, and make all his house hold work. He will get his wife a cooking-stove and abolish entirely the old-fashioned kitchen; get her a sewing-machine and fix her up generally. so that all household matters may be performed with as little hired labor as possible. He will alter his own habits and those of his children-get up in the morning and make his own fire, it necessary, and stir up his children, not have them lying in bed as in former times, waiting for a little darkie to brush their shoes.

Farming, of course will not pay, if you keep idle negroes about you, who do not add to the products of the soil. who are consumers merely, and from whom you can derive no benefit from an increase.

Farming if managed properly in this country, is obliged to pay. But the merchant may sell a large quantity of goods at fair prices and yet not be able to support the extravagance of his family. So, a farmer may make large crops and sell them for high prices and yet not be able to stand up under a hundred leakages of one sort or other. It will not do to say that the fault is in merchandise or in farming.

AN OLD STORY .- The following is an old story and one which we have seen in print ere now, but a second perusal may afford our readers some amusement as was the effect with us. It was immediately attributable to a cotemporary of a neighboring city, who has picked it up somewhere and located the scene in his own place, and given it as happening to an unfortunate denizen of that quarter of the globe:

"A young fellow whose sweetheart discarded him the other night, was found shortly after seated on the curbstone thus moralizing in verses:

"Oh! Sal was fair, her eyes were blue Before her glance I knock-ed under: She knowed I loved her, fond and true Yet softly murmured go to thunder.' "So I sot medown in thought profound This maxim wise I drew:

It's easier to love a gal, Than to make a gal love you."

Here his muse broke down, and he soon joined a band of red-nosed pat riots, who 'took sugar in ther'n.'

ROSADALIS WILL CURE THE WORST CASES OF SCROFULA. READ THE STATEMENT BE-LOW AND DESPAIR NOT.

WILSON COUNTY, Sept. 10th, 1867 Dr. J. J. LAWRENCE:

Dr. J. J. LAWRENCE:

Dear Sir—My youngest daughter, aged five years, has been dreadfully afflicted with Scrofuls nearly all her life. I tried a great many Physicians, but without relieving her much; in fact, most of them said there was no hepe of cure. During the last Spring she was worse than ever, her body and limbs being covered with sores and blotches—with face and eyes badly ulcerated and swollen. Whilst in this condition, I was advised by Dr. L. A. Stith to try your Rossadils. I as once procured three bottles, and commenced giving it to her. The effect was magical. In less than a month, to my great astenishment, she was mirripuedl.

Yours, with much respect and gratitude, W. W. BURNETT.

ROSADALIS CURES ALL SKIT DISEASES.

WILSON, N. C., Sept. 15, 1867 Dr. LAWRENCE—Dear Sir:—In 1862, my soc. ow aged five years, was vaccinated with what roved to be impure matter, which completely decroyed his health. He has been afflicted with an extension, trophicon. stroved his health. He has been amnest what investment and extremely troublesome Emption of the Skin, sometimes breaking out in sores, &c. Rosndalis was prescribed by my family physician—Dr. A. D. Moore. After taking it a few weeks, my son became and remains entirely well.

Yours truly,

J. B. DANIEL.
